DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of the amendment filed on 6/29/2007, which has been entered in the file. Claims 1-5, 7, 8, 10-14, 22-25, 27 and 28 are pending.

EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Mr. Ronald Reichman (26,796) on July 12, 2007. The amendments to claims 1 and 8 serve to further clarify the claims. It was determined that, after the amendments to claim 1, claim 7 was no longer needed.

The application has been amended as follows:

In the claims:

Claims 1 and 8 have been amended as follows. Claim 7 has been canceled.

1. (Currently amended) An apparatus comprising:

reading means for reading first ink physical characteristic data from an indicia, the indicia including at least one symbol including ink physical characteristic data that is indicative of the physical characteristic of the ink;

Art Unit: 2876

detecting means for detecting at least one ~~symbol that includes~~ ink physical characteristic ~~data that is indicative of the physical characteristic of the ink~~ of the indicia to generate second ink physical characteristic data; wherein the reading and detecting means comprises a single scanner that is shared by the reading means and the detecting means and processing means, coupled to the reading means and to the detecting means, for comparing the second ink physical characteristic data with the first ink physical characteristic data.

7 (canceled).

8. (currently amended) A method comprising:

reading first ink physical characteristic data from an indicia that is included in the indicia in encrypted form and decrypting the encrypted first ink physical characteristic data;

detecting at least one ink physical characteristic of the indicia to generate second ink physical characteristic data; and comparing the second ink physical characteristic data with the decrypted first ink physical characteristic data to verify the indicia.

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-5, 8, 10-14, 22-25, 27 and 28 have been allowed over the prior art of record.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art of record, taken alone or in combination, fails to teach or fairly suggest: (re claim 1 and dependents) an apparatus wherein the reading and detecting means comprises a single scanner that is shared by the reading means and detecting means and processing means, coupled to the reading means and detecting means, for comparing second the second ink physical characteristic data with the first ink physical characteristic data; (re claim 8 and dependents) a method comprising reading first ink physical characteristic data from an indicia that is included in the indicia in encrypted form and decrypting the encrypted first ink characteristic data and comparing the second ink physical characteristic data with the decrypted first ink physical characteristic data to verify the indicia; (re claim 22 and dependents) a method comprising determining a physical characteristic of ink to be applied to a substrate and applying ink to the substrate to form an indicia such that the indicia includes at least one symbol, the at least one symbol including ink physical characteristic data that is indicative of at least one spectral characteristic of the ink; in combination with the other limitations as set forth in claims 1, 8 and 22.

Leon (US 6,701,304 B2) teaches an apparatus (500, figure 5) including a reading means (510 or 520, figure 5) and a detecting means (530, figure 5). However, Leon teaches that the reading means and detecting means are separate (see figure 5 and column 13, lines 18-33), not a single scanner shared by the reading means and the detecting means. Leon states that the detector 530 is designed to detect features not detected by readers 510 and 520 (see column 13, lines 27-32). Leon also fails to teach or suggest reading first ink physical characteristic data from an indicia.

Liang (US 6,373,965 B1) teaches an apparatus and method for authentication using both fluorescent and visible images. The apparatus uses a single scanner (scanner 60 and detector 40, figure 1) to detect both the fluorescent and visible images. However, the apparatus and method does not read or detect a physical characteristic of the ink, only the presence of the ink and whether the fluorescent and visible images correspond.

Without the benefit of applicant's teachings, there is no motivation for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the prior art in a manner so as to create the claimed invention.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The teachings of Liang (US 6,373,965 B1) have been discussed above.
